

Before completing this form please read: 'How to apply for a correction to a birth registration'

This can be obtained from your local register office or at www.gov.uk

The application should be made by the mother and the father/2nd parent (if their details are included on the certificate). If you are applying for a correction to your own birth certificate we will need a letter from the person(s) who originally registered the birth agreeing to the correction.

There is a statutory fee for each application. If the application does not need to be referred to the General Register Office (GRO) the fee will be £83.00. Any application requiring referral to GRO the fee will be £99.00.

This is a consideration fee and, as such, is not refundable. The fee must be paid at the point of application.

1.2 Child's details as stated on birth certificate:

[illegible]

[illegible][illegible]

Please clearly explain in the boxes below what is wrong and what the correct details are:

2.2 The correct details to be shown

It is not possible to list every example of acceptable evidence, but it should be an official document which shows the correct information. Examples will include:

certificate of 1st marriage (for correction to maiden name)

<https://www.gov.uk/countersigning-passport-applications>

If you are taking the application to a Register Office and paying in person then the Register Office should be able to certify your documents as a true copy of the original which means you can retain your original documentation.

If you cannot send any evidence that an error has occurred your application will not result in a correction. Further advice can be obtained by calling 0300 123 1837

4.0 The correction:

The original information will always be shown as it was first given, but a note will be written against the registration. This will explain what the correct information should be and the date when the correction was made. All full birth certificates issued afterwards will include the note in the margin. There is no legal requirement to witness the correction.

4.1 Declaration:

I confirm that I understand the correction will be made in my absence and the correction will take the form of a note in the margin.
